Installation faults are not covered under manufacturers warranty

Before we arrange to attend your home, premises or managed property to inspect what issue there may be with your air conditioner, you confirm by replying to this email, that you:

1. Understand that any issue that is not a fault of manufacture will not be covered under warranty, For example, leaking refrigerant connections, or kinked pipe are not a fault of manufacture and will be considered an installation issue for which the manufacturer has no control or responsibility.
2. Agree to pay in full on the day, our call out and service fees in relation to the inspection of the air conditioner. Minimum cost $99.00

Specifically, if the failure of the air conditioner is related to an installation issue, we will require payment on the day of a call out and service fee. If we are able to rectify the issue at the time we will need you to approve the work and again we will require payment on the day. You will need to seek re-imbusement for these non-warranty payments through your installer.
